

EDITORS’ NOTES

HINCKLEY JOURNAL OF POLITICS’ MISSION STATEMENT

The Hinckley Journal of Politics strives to publish scholarly papers of exceptional caliber, promoting the intellectual talents and understanding of University of Utah undergraduate students in the fields of politics, government, international relations, and humanitarian aid. Contributing articles should address relevant issues by analyzing key problems and potential solutions. Papers should adhere to the highest standards of political research and analysis. The Journal covers local, national, and international issues, and embraces diverse political perspectives. With this publication the Hinckley Institute hopes to encourage reader involvement in the world of politics.

GENERAL COMMENTS AND ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

It has been an honor and a pleasure to serve as editors for the 14th edition of the Hinckley Journal of Politics. First and foremost, we thank the student authors and the public officials who have contributed to this year’s Journal. Without their contributions, the Journal would not be possible. The Journal is one of many wonderful opportunities the Hinckley Institute provides for our undergraduate students, and we thank the countless supporters of the Hinckley Institute who make these opportunities attainable. We are indeed appreciative of the generosity of the Hinckley family for their vision of the need for student involvement in practical politics and the principle of citizen involvement in government. We thank the Hinckley staff for their dedication to students. We thank our Managing Editors, Faculty Editor, and Faculty Advisors, and the Hinckley Journal of Politics editorial board for their work in reviewing and editing the published student papers. Finally, we commend all students who are involved in the political process, whether as interns, campaign volunteers, or scholars. We hope you will find the articles within the Journal insightful and timely.

GENERAL SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

The Hinckley Journal of Politics welcomes submissions from University of Utah students of all academic disciplines as well as from Utah’s public officials. Any political science-related topic is acceptable. The scope can range from University issues to international issues. Papers should adhere to submission guidelines found on the Hinckley Journal website: www.hinckley.utah.edu/hinckley-journal/

REVIEW AND NOTIFICATION PROCEDURES

Submissions will be reviewed by the Journal editors, members of the editorial board, and faculty advisors. Submission of a paper does not guarantee publication. Papers that do not adhere to submission and style guidelines will not be considered for publication. Acceptance to the Journal is competitive. The editors will notify potential authors when the decision has been made as to which papers have been selected for publication.

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES FOR PUBLIC OFFICIALS

The Journal will consider for publication essays written by national, state, and local public officials. Officials should contact the editors for additional information.
